

DNR Construction's Letter of Commitment from the Founder, Owners and Employees

Dear Prospective and Past Customers,

In current economic times, we believe it is important for our customers to be reassured that financial integrity has been the cornerstone of DNR Construction's business since the beginning. We have used financial integrity to accelerate growth year after year, surpass customer's expectations and create a mutually beneficial environment for our employees. DNR Construction remains to be a relatively debt free company and will continue to be. With our national and local media sources consistently filling headlines with company failure and mismanagement, DNR Construction can provide an extra security blanket and peace of mind to its customers on a local level.

DNR Construction's "whatever it takes approach" in regards to making each customer satisfied is not always the path taken by contractors within the construction industry. We have always believed that our reputation is our most important form of advertising and our beliefs have paid off. We are an A+ rated company on Angies List, have received numerous "Contractor of the Year" awards, and continue to receive numerous referrals from homeowners. We have developed a substantial list of references which include owners of multi-unit properties, presidents of property management firms and directors of large programs. Each reference will attest to our quality of work on projects already completed or programs we work with on an annual basis.

We wish to thank you for our continued success and bright future. We look forward to working with you on your next project.
